NOVEL ON RECORDS.

While a convention of educators in Parls was listening to a publisher's prophecy of that near future when every family will have its "library" of novels in motion pictures, in London the first gramophone novel was being produced. Using a recording machine invented by a Mr. Pemberton Billings, which makes it possible to record an hour's music or reading on one disc of the usual size, a popular novel was read into the receiver lix proved to be "six hours long"—six discs in one neat, small album—taking up little more space than the printed version. Some will remember ing up little more space than the printed version. Some will remember the chapter in H. G. Wells' nowi 'the time machine' telling how the people

STAGE BEDS FORBIDDEN.

The lord chancellor has turned thumbs down on stage beds. It isn't, one may infer, what is done in a bed or said about a bed that makes it an immoral spectacle for Londoners, it is the bed per se that is immoral Monckton Hoofe's new comedy. Pomp and Circumstance," was banned because in one scene there was a bed. It just stood there, taking banned because in one scene there was a bed. It just stood there, taking no part in the action, an article of furniture in a set that purported to be a bedroom. Hoofe mentioned a be a bedroom. Hoose mentioned a half dozen recent plays with beds— "The Man In Dress Clothes." "Up In Mabel's Room." and "Othello," in the latter of which, of course, they liter-ally get away with murder in the bed-

But the lord chancellor evidently decided to forbid them all, be ginning with cradles, perhaps, and extending to Morris chairs. My sug-gestion to Hoofe was that he borrow from the book of Chinese drama and place a saw horse on the stage, labelling it. 'this represents that piece of furniture from which the sleeping chamber derives a term commonly applied to it.' That ought to satisfy everybody.

UTAH MINERALS TO BE SHOWN IN EAST

CLEVELAND, Ohlo, June 17 .- The twenty-fifth annual convention and ex-position—the silver jubilee anniver-sary—of the American Mining con-gress will be held in Cleveland's new public hall, October 9 to 4, inclusive.

The convention, C. E. Porter, manager of the convention, said, will bring approximately 2,500 delegates from all parts of the United States, as well as Canada, Mexico and Alaska. Delegations from all important metal and gations from all important metal and coal mining districts are planning to attend, he said. Last year at Chicago 39 states were represented, among the delegates and 25 official state delega-states to atend.

A large portion of the exposition will be devoted to public exhibits. The government will be represented with exhibits from the United States bureau or mines the United States geological. of mines, the United States geological aurvey and the department of agricul-ture. California, Colorado, Utah, Wyo-ming and Arizona have arranged for displays, Mexico, Cuba, British Columbia and South America will be repre-sented.

The Colorado exhibit will consist largely of radium ore, and will feature o activities

A display will have an extensive dis-lay of its mineral resources. A display of complete working models of mechanical methods used in pre-paring anthracite coal and a new pro-cess for dry cleaning bituminous coal
